NOTES IN SEASON.

ROBERTS BROTHERS will soon publish a new edition of "A Modern Mephistopheles," which first appeared in the No Name series. The author's name, Louisa M. Alcott, is now printed on the title-page for the first time. It was one of the famous No Names, the authorship of which was never guessed by any one. The story resembled Hawthorne's style so much that at its publication many attributed it to him. Appended to the volume is another story called "A Whisper in the Dark," a story written many years ago, but which never appeared in book-form.

THE NEW ENGLAND PUBLISHING CO. have just published "One Hundred Lessons in Composition," by W. H. Huston, of Toronto, which contains 400 practical exercises in composition, and is the sixth volume in their library of Teachers' Help Manuals. It will shortly be followed by "Manual of Rhymes, Selections, and Phrases," by Oscar Fay Adams; "Forty Friday Afternoons," by forty prominent masters, each giving what he considered his best exercises for a Friday afternoon; and "Common-Sense Exercises in Geography," a book of exercises—not questions—adapted to all grades and to the best American text-books. They have also just ready "School Music," by W. S. Tilden, of the State Normal School, Framingham, Mass., a series of papers from the American Teacher.

HARPER & BROS. have just ready "The Correspondence of John Lothrop Motley," edited by George William Curtis. Mr. Motley's daughters have collected these letters, chiefly addressed to the writer's family and to Oliver Wendell Holmes. They contain the autobiography of one of the most striking figures in American literary history. The author of "The Rise of the Dutch Republic," "History of the United Netherlands," and "The Life and Death of John of Barneveldt" studied the history of liberty in an essentially American spirit. Wendell Phillips was his school chum, Bismarck his fellow-student at Göttingen, and as United States Minister to London, Holland, and Austria he made personal friends of all the literary and political celebrities of his day. Few lives have been so full of incident of universal interest. The work is in two volumes and has a portrait.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

EMIN PASHA, the "mystery" of mid-Africa, and an altogether remarkable character, forms the subject of an entertaining paper by Elbridge S. Brooks in the February Wide Awake.

THE Critic observed the seventieth anniversary of the birth of Mr. Lowell, which occurred on Feb. 22, by printing 70 letters and poems from American and English men and women of letters, among whom are Tennyson, Whittier, Gladstone, Holmes, and Stedman.

MRS. FRANK LESLIE has sold to W. J. Arkell, of Judge, her Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, both English and German, the transfers to be made May 1. Mrs. Leslie will retain and personally direct her other publications. Mr. Arkell says the policy of the Weekly will remain the same—independent in politics—and that the present force will be retained and new skill added.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Ap Richard, [pseud.] Marriage and divorce: an inquiry into the moral, the practical, the political, and the religious aspects of the question: by Ap Richard; with appendices by Prof. D: Swing and others. N. Y. and Chic., Rand, McNally & Co., 1889. 15+208 p. D. (The illustrated ser., no. 8.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c.

This volume, published five years ago in England, is in line with the recent discussion started in the Westminster Review, by Mrs. Mona Caird's paper, "Is marriage a failure?" The author urgently advocates a reform in the laws of English marriage and divorce, showing that they are not truly in accordance with that authority on which they are professedly based, namely, the teaching of scripture. A careful study of the Bible on the subject has proved to him, he says, that neither divorce nor polygamy is forbidden by it—although he does not advocate any general adoption of the latter practice, "especially among Englishmen." The appendix contains an article by J. R. Davidson, "The laws of England and of Scotland as regards marriage and divorce, their assimilation and reform," also a review of this book from the Westminster Review.

Armstrong, W: H. National internal revenue taxation in its relations to temperance and prohibition. N. Y., National Temperance Soc. and Pub. House, 1889. c. 62 p. D. pap., 10 c.

A comprehensive presentation of the subject of internal revenue liquor taxation. It considers the question of the repeal, the importance of continuing the system, discusses its relation to prohibition, shows how it lessens the amount of liquor drunk, and gives numerous reasons for the continuance of the system.

Baird, W: Index to the general orders amendatory of the U. S. army regulations; together with index to the circulars, rulings, and decisions of the war department to Jan. 1, '89. Wash., D. C., James J. Chapman, agt., 1889. 104 p. S. flex. cl., $1.

This edition is interleaved, so that future changes can readily be noted. The edition of 1886 and addenda of 1887 have been carefully rearranged, condensed, and corrected. Orders or decisions since 1881, which have subsequently been further and further modified so as to be obsolete, do not appear. Hence extensive subjects, such as ammunition, extra duty, mileage, target practice, uniform, etc., have been much condensed, and present only the rulings now in force.

Balfour, Arthur J. The religion of humanity: an address delivered at the church congress, Manchester, Eng., Oct., 1888. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1889.] 30 p. D. pap., 15 c.

Beet, Jos. Agar. Holiness as understood by the writers of the Bible: a Bible study. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1889. 70 p. D. cl., 35 c.

A little work designed both for students of the original scriptures and for readers of the English Bible. It was first published in 1880, the author's conception of holiness, which is not conventional, calling forth some criticism.

Brown, Mrs. Helen E. A hungry little lamb. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1889.] c. '88. 336 p. il. S. cl., $1.15.

This is a simple story simply told. Without any perfunctory preaching in it, it preaches through all its pages by its tender and elevated spirit and by the beautiful exemplifications of the mind of Christ in its incidents. The book is one which will interest quite young children, as it is written in plain and easy words, and its story is natural and true to life.

Brownell, W. C. French traits: an essay in comparative criticism. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1889. c. '88, '89. 4+411 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Mr. Brownell writes evidently from careful observation here and abroad. In 10 chapters entitled "The social instinct," "Morality," "Intelligence," "Sense and sentiment," "Manners," "Women," "The art instinct," "The provincial spirit," "Democracy," and "New York after Paris"—he compares the French people with a corresponding class in England and America. The book is a testimony to the French character, without being disagreeably critical to the American. He seeks to show however that we might learn something from the ever-present French courtesy and sympathy. The essays were first published in Scribner's Magazine.

Bruce, Philip A. The plantation negro as a freeman; observations on his character, condition, and prospects in Virginia. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. 8+262 p. D. (Questions of the day, no. 57.) cl., $1.25.

The picture the author paints of the present moral and mental condition of the southern negro is not flattering. His moral degradation is especially dwelt upon, and his general decadence prophesied. He looks upon the fact, that he was made a votes, as a great mistake, which will grow more alarming as the race rapidly increases with time. He does not think that either the education of the church or school greatly improves the race, hence their future seems to him without hope. When a struggle comes for his whole political rights—as he thinks it must come—the white race he believes will mercilessly push him to the wall.

Bulwer-Lytton, Sir E: G: E. L., [Lord Lytton.] Rienzi, the last of the tribunes. In 2 pts. Pt. 1. N. Y., G: Munro, [1889.] 215 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1144.) pap., 20 c.

Bunner, H. C. A woman of honor. 5th ed. Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889. c. '81, '83. 336 p. S. (Ticknor's pap. ser., no. 52.) pap., 50 c.

Chadwick, J: W. Charles Robert Darwin. Bost., The New Ideal Pub. Co., 1889. c. 51 p. D. (The modern science essayist, v. 1, no. 2.) pap., 10 c.

Davis, Rev. J. A. The flaw in the iron; or, the weak place in the character that failed in temptation. Phil., Presb. Bd. of Pub., [1889.] c. '88. 384 p. il. S. cl., $1.25.

The only way to be safe in all life's testings is to make the character perfectly honest and good throughout. This story illustrates this vital truth, and also shows well how such character may be formed.

De Mille, Ja. A strange manuscript found in a copper cylinder; il. by Gilbert Gaul. [Anon.] N. Y., Harper, 1889. c. '88. 6+291 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 639.) pap., 50 c.

See notice, "Weekly Record," P. W., June 2, '88, [853.]

Deems, C: F., D.D., comp. Sunshine for dark hours: a book for invalids. N. Y., Wilbur B.

- Ketcham, 1889. c. '88. 96 p. D. pap., net, 25 c.
Brief selections in prose and verse for daily readings.
- Dykes, J. Oswald, D.D. The gospel according to St. Paul: studies in the first eight chapters of his epistle to the Romans. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., 1888. 6+280 p. D. (Nisbet's theological lib.) cl., $1.75.
This is "neither a commentary nor a treatise in theology. It is rather addressed to scholars nor to divines. Nor does it set forth any novel interpretation of the apostle's teaching." The writer has simply attempted "to restate in plain—that is, not technical—language, the course of the argument and the development of thought through these famous chapters, in such a way as may prove of assistance to readers who possess an intelligent interest in evangelical truth."
- Easter bells. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., [1889.] 30 p. il. sq. D. pap., 75 c.
An Easter souvenir; poems and pictures in monotint.
- Foster, Mrs. J. Ellen. The saloon must go. N. Y., National Temp. Soc. and Pub. House, 1889. c. 36 p. D. pap., 10 c.
An argument against license, and in favor of prohibition by statutory enactment and constitutional amendment, state and national, of the liquor traffic.
- General Christian Conference. Vital questions: the discussions of the General Christian Conference held in Montreal, Canada, Oct. 22 to 25, 1888, under the auspices and direction of the Montreal branch of the Evangelical Alliance. Montreal, W. Drysdale & Co., 1889. 6+293 p. O. cl., $1.25; pap., 75 c.
The topics discussed are: Current unbelief; Capital and labor; National perils; Roman Catholicism in Canada; Romanism in relation to education; Romish dogma a source of religious, social, and national peril; Coöperation in Christian work; The Dominion Evangelical Alliance; The church in its relation to the evangelization of the world.
- Gilchrist, Fredericka Beardsley. The true story of Hamlet and Ophelia. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1889. c. 3+339 p. D. cl., $1.50.
"It is a keen analysis of the characters and situations of the famous play. . . . The book is plainly but forcibly written, without any attempt at a display of subtlety, even when the point of view differs the most from accepted conclusions. Hamlet is regarded as a very young man, and the pathos and beauty of the play are, in the author's view, increased by the fact that he is despoiled in his youth of the hopes and illusions that usually glorify that age. The madness of the prince is held to be feigned, for the purpose of profiting by the license madness takes to mock and abuse its interlocutors. The author's view of the character of Ophelia is novel, and will provoke criticism; but in this, as in other parts of the book, her acuteness and independence are noticeable, and will insure a careful consideration of her work."—Alexander Young, in The Critic. Appended to the work is a reprint of the story on which Shakespeare founded the play, "The hystorie of Hamlet."
- Guernsey, Lucy Ellen. A Lent in earnest; or, sober thoughts for solemn days. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1889. c. 198 p. D. cl., $1.
Meditations on confession, forgiveness, fasting, our enemies, etc., for each day in Lent. Written for those, "who, by reason of infirmity or other reasons, are shut out from the services of the church at this season."
- *Haskell, T. Hawes. Reports of judgments of Hon. E. Fox, U. S. district judge for Maine dist., 1st circuit. V. 2 [1876-1882.] Portland, Loring, Short & Harmon, 1888. c. '89. 14+16-598 p. O. shp., $6.
- Hayes, H. [pseud.] A daughter of Eve. [Anon.] Bost., Ticknor & Co., 1889. c. 6-447 p. D. cl., $1.50.
David Litchfield is old, deaf, and a millionaire. Olive Barrymore gives up the man she loves and marries him, because her mother wants his money to save the family honor. Olive is not without a conscience, and is deeply humiliated at her family's money demands upon the old man, who is a good husband to her. She resigns her right of dower in his estate, and begs him to use his money to carry out his own desires. He dies suddenly, and it is found the bulk of his money is given to a humanitarian scheme, though Olive is abundantly provided for. The man she had once loved returns to her, and tries to sustain her resolution to carry out her husband's wishes. But carried away by the importunities of her impecunious family she at last agrees to break the will. James Merion, her former lover, tries to prevent this, and makes it the test of her love for him. The scene is laid in New York. Olive's family are all cleverly drawn and very real.
- Heimburg, W., [pseud. for Bertha Behrens.] Gertrude's marriage; from the German by Mrs. J. W. Davis. N. Y., Worthington Co., 1889. c. tr. 2+307 p. il. D. cl., $1.25; pap., 75 c.
There is scarcely any plot to this novel; it deals entirely with the marriage of a rich young lady to a poor young man. Gertrude, who believes she has been married for herself alone, thinks she discovers, after marriage, some facts which cast doubts upon her husband's professions of disinterested love. She leaves him, only to come back to him penitent on finding she has made a mistake, and after many unnecessary unhappy hours for both of them. Illustrated in photo-gravure from designs by W. de Meza. The paper has wide margins and uncut edges.
- Holland, Rev. H. S. On behalf of belief: sermons preached in St. Paul's Cathedral. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1889. 10+285 p. D. cl., $1.75.
Twelve sermons, "concerning the resurrection, concerning the church, concerning human nature." The reverend author is canon and precentor of St. Paul's, London.
- Hollis, E. B. Cecil's knight. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1889.] c. 349 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.
Louis Thorne is Cecil's knight; and "Cecil" is Miss Cecil Huntington, who figured in "Cecil's summer" and "Cecil's cousins." Her brave teachings first inspired Louis to be a knight. She showed him how even a poor little friendless boy as he was could do knightly deeds of love and kindness to the people of his own little world. The book is strong in aim and moral. Louis' life, though full of poverty and misfortunes, has its bright side at last—his goodness finding its reward.
- Holmes, H. E., ed. Miscellaneous readings and recitations: humor, pathos, and eloquence; designed for public and social entertainment and for use in schools and colleges. Phil., The National School of Elocution and Oratory, 1888. c. 508 p. D. cl., $1.50.
Miss Holmes is a successful teacher of elocution, as well as a popular reader and speaker, and with a full acquaintance with the practical wants of the profession has produced an admirable collection of recitals, embracing all the different qualities of voice, including a large number of impersonations.
- *Iowa. Supreme court. Reports of cases. E. C. Ebersole, rep. V. 16, being v. 74 of the series. Columbia, Mo., E. W. Stephens, 1889. c. 859 p. O. shp., $2.50.
- *Janvier, T. A. The Mexican guide. New rev. ed. for 1889. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1889. il. and map, D. cl., net, $2.50.
- Kirkland, Miss E. S., comp. What shall we write about? One thousand composition subjects for the use of teachers and pupils. Chic., Fergus Printing Co., 1889. c. '88. 63 p. S. pap., 15 c.
- Lee, Mary Catherine. A Quaker girl of Nantucket. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. 4+320 p. D. cl., $1.25.
The little "Quaker girl" is a new figure in fiction. Her quaint speech and quaint ways are very charming. Her early life is a picture of Nantucket in days gone by, evidently taken from a real experience. The plot turns upon the identity of two baby boys saved from a wreck. The "Quaker girl" plays a large part in the lives of each. The story is unusually fresh and readable.
- Lester, H. F. Hartas Maturin. N. Y., Frank F. Lovell & Co., [1889.] 404 p. D. (Lovell's international ser., no. 2.) pap., 50 c.
- Lyall, Edna [pseud. for Ada Ellen Bayly.] We two. In 2 pts. Pt. I. N. Y., G. Munro, 1889.

200 p. D. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 1160. pap., 20 c.

McCosh, Ja., D.D. First and fundamental truths: being a treatise on metaphysics. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1889. c. 9+360 p. D. cl., $2.

This volume embodies the results of Dr. McCosh's teaching at Queen's College, Belfast, Ireland, and Princeton College, N. J., and is considered by him "the cope stone of what he has been able to do in philosophy." He has undertaken to inquire into the nature of first principles, and to classify and arrange them into a science, in pursuing which end he has reached a realistic philosophy opposed alike to the skeptical philosophy of Hume and idealistic philosophy of Kant. In this is embraced his conception of metaphysics, which he defines as the science of first and fundamental truths.

Matthews' guide for settlers upon the public lands, land attorneys, land agents, clerks of courts, notaries, bankers, brokers, and all persons interested in the public lands of the United States and having business before the District Land Office, the General Land Office, and the Department of the Interior. Wash., D. C., W. H. Lowdermilk & Co., 1889. c. 234 p. O. hf. shp., $2; pap., $1.50.

Prefaced by a historical map of U. S. showing the thirteen original states, with the territory subsequently acquired giving the dates and sources of acquisition; followed by a complete and exhaustive statistical history of each of the land states and territories; the various state and territorial laws affecting real property after title is acquired from the United States, the various laws of the United States under which title to the public land can be acquired, viz.: The Homestead, Desert Land, Pre-emption, Mining, Townsite, and Timber and Stone acts, with the rulings of the department under each, notes on railroad grants, concluding with the rules of practice before the United States district land offices, the General Land Office, and the Department of the Interior, with amendments to date.

Messmer, J. J. Red Carl; from the German; by Mary E. Ireland. N. Y., T: Y. Crowell & Co., [1889.] c. tr. '88. 295 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

The scenes of this story are laid, for the most part, in a New England manufacturing town; variety is found, however, by the migration of a part of the family to the far west. The chief characters are a German family, the Neumanns, who come to America to better their fortunes. They are finely delineated and are all noble types of men and women. There is a strike, very well described, of which "Red Carl" is the leader, and other dramatic incidents. A good healthy story for young readers. Originally written and published in German under the title Im Strom der Zeit, by Walden & Stowe, Cin.

Moore, Homer H. Sicknes as a profession; how practiced by an expert and why abandoned. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1889. c. 2-291 p. D. cl., $1.

The moral of this story is pointed against the men and women who imagine themselves ill, and make themselves "the plagues of their neighborhood and a burden to their friends." The chief character is a farmer's wife, who considers herself a hopeless invalid, and has for years been an expense and a trouble to her husband. The husband finally gets desperate, frankly expresses his mind to his wife, quarrels with the doctor, who has been feeding the invalid with bread pills and colored water, and sends both the doctor and the servant girl out of the house. The "sick" woman, thrown on her own resources, comes finally to her senses. The moral is that intense selfishness is the guiding motive of all such characters.

Norris, Mary Harriott. A damsel of the eighteenth century; or, Cicely's choice. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, 1889. c. 275 p. D. cl., $1.

The one who tells the story is "Mistress Cicely Millacent Hunter," a fashionable young girl of the period. The author's motives in writing the story were to imitate the colloquial English of the upper classes in London in the latter half of the eighteenth century; to give a faithful picture of the fashions in dress, manners, and social usages of this period; to present, as simply as possible, facts connected with the rise of Methodism, and especially the lives and characters of the Wesleys, socially as well as religiously considered; and to introduce contemporary historical characters.

Pearse, Mark Guy. Simon Jasper. N. Y., Phillips & Hunt, [1889.] 5-251 p. D. cl., 90 c.

Simon Jasper is an old man of seventy; he relates his own story, going back to the day of his birth; the story is told in an English country dialect, and is full of a quaint wisdom. It illustrates a cheerful and thankful spirit, showing how, in spite of a life-long grinding poverty, Simon Jasper found life well worth living.

Dr. Purves is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburg, Pa. He hopes that his lectures may stimulate more of our Presbyterian ministers to cultivate the field of early patristic literature. He further says, "with the utmost desire to deal fairly with the evidence and to follow the facts, he has obtained, by his excursions into patristic literature, renewed assurance both of the divine origin of Christianity and of the correctness of the orthodox Protestant estimate of the New Testament."

Shinn, G: Wolfe, D.D. King's handbook of notable Episcopal churches in the United States. Bost., Moses King Corporation, 87 Boylston St., 1889. c. 286 p. il. O. cl., $1.

There are four classes of churches represented in this book: 1, Old colonial buildings erected before the American revolution. 2, Buildings illustrating the period of recuperation and growth in the early part of this century. 3, Parish churches in cities and towns, in many cases with chapels and parish buildings attached. 4, The cathedrals. The handbook is useful in several ways—as illustrating the progress which has been made by the Episcopal Church in this country during the past century; as a book for tourists in the United States wishing to see church buildings, and finally, as a volume rich in suggestion to parishes and individuals contemplating building churches. Each picture is accompanied by an interesting text giving the history of the church and its parish.

A picture of English life and character, its palaces, sovereigns, drama, sports, literature, etc., drawn from the writings of foreigners. A bibliography of the works from which extracts were made, covers nine pages.

Stapleton, Patience. Kady. N. Y. and Chic., Belford, Clarke & Co., [1889.] c. '88. 403 p. D. (The household lib., v. 3, no. 24.) cl., $1; pap., 50 cents.

The grandeur of the Rocky Mountains, the low life of Denver and the surrounding cities, with the peculiar characteristics of the people of this region, make a striking background for a striking story. "Kady" was the daughter of Diamond Ab, a former card sharper, and Winona, an Indian squaw; she lived contentedly the primitive life of a mountaineer, until the arrival of Morris Randolph; this seems to be the event of the story, as separations, quarrels, and murders rapidly succeed each other, before peace again descends on the mountains and a pretty love story is finished. Not the least pleasing feature of the book is the humorous side. Mary Jane Pinkham, her mother, and "Louisy" are all real, and their effectual method of guarding their property is worthy of example.

Storey, Moorfield. Politics as a duty and as a career. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1889. c. '88. 33 p. D. (Questions of the day, no. 53.) pap., 25 c.

Points out briefly the duty of young college men in politics; the influence they may exert for good by an earnest and honest interest in the questions of the day is strongly dwelt upon.

Winchell, Alex. Shall we teach geology? A discussion of the proper place of geology in modern education. Chic., S. C. Griggs & Co., 1889. c. 8+217 p. D. cl., $1.

A contest has long been waged among educators as to which is of greater practical value in education, the classics or the sciences. For many years the friends of the classics had it pretty much their own way, but of late the scientists have been putting in some strong pleas in behalf of their side of the case. The latest of these is by the well-known author and scientist, Dr. Alexander Winchell, of the University of Michigan. Few, if any, American writers are better qualified for discussing this question than Dr. Winchell. While his treatise is a special plea for teaching geology in the public schools, it is intended to cover the whole ground of contest between the sciences and the classics, and hence is of great interest, not only to teachers, but to all who are interested in observing the tendencies of modern education.

GERMAN REMEDIES FOR UNDERSELLING.

To those aware of the difficulties in the way of overcoming the evil of underselling it will not be a surprise to learn that the struggle of the association of the book-trade in Germany with this difficulty has not yet resulted in success. Indeed it has suffered within a short time two defeats which may in the end tend to the collapse of the whole movement. Strong as the Börsenverein is, and excellent as its organization may be, in this matter it has left out of its calculations one important factor, namely, human nature. Men in assemblies may be carried away by the eloquence and enthusiasm of others, and be led to indorse measures which on sober second thought they may have cause to ignore or to repudiate entirely. We have known this to happen in our own midst not so many years ago. Then there are others who, with "an eye to the main chance," vote with the crowd, to remain popular, mentally reserving to themselves the privilege of doing as they please after all. Again there is a large body of respectable people who have one law for the Medes and another for the Persians, and who, according to their lights, mean to do right, but—there is always something in the way. One really cannot blame these people. It is human nature, and the pity of it is there is a surplus of it all over the world—too much of it, at any rate, for good fellowship. And so it is that when the smoke of the battle clears away only a small band will be found who have remained true to the colors from beginning to the end.

At the meeting of the Börsenverein at Frankfurt two years ago the Berlin element showed unrest when the measure for restricting discounts came up. The strongest possible arguments were brought to bear, and it finally became a law. Dealers from that time forward were to be allowed to give a discount to the public of only five per cent. for cash sales or for quantities. No discounts were to be allowed on periodicals. In case any firm should break this rule they were to be shut off entirely from all the privileges of the Börsenverein, the Börsenblatt was to be withheld—in short, they were to be excommunicated, boycotted, ruined, if need be. What effect this dire threat had upon the members of the association may be judged from the fact that placards very soon were inserted in the official journal notifying the trade that until further notice the firms mentioned were not to be served by the trade. The contumacious members hailed from every part of Germany—from Berlin, Hamburg, Magdeburg, and, hard to believe, from the very cradle of the movement—Leipzig itself.

Late last year the Berlin trade represented to the local committee of the Börsenverein that for very good and sufficient reasons they were to be accorded the privilege of giving an extra five per cent. to their patrons. After considerable discussion the petition was granted, but on the condition that this privilege should be exercised only within the limits of the city of Berlin. This injunction proved vain. Not long ago a circular, dated Berlin, 1889, was sent to a large number of educational institutions in Leipzig, and presumably in other university towns, calling attention to the fact that as the Berlin book-trade were privileged to give a larger percentage than the book-trade elsewhere it might easily be seen to be to the advantage of the learned fraternity to place their orders for books with the Berlin firms. "Purchases may be made in person or an acquaintance can be entrusted with the orders. The larger the order the greater the saving," continues the circular, "hence clubbing orders would prove desirable and advantageous. Every Berlin bookseller will forward the books bought in his establishment to any given address, and will in most cases pay the carriage." Commentary on this construction of "local" trade is unnecessary.

Of course the Leipzig book-trade were not left very long in ignorance of this move on the part of their Berlin rivals, and at once a resolution was presented to the Börsenverein that Leipzig should enjoy the same advantages that were afforded to the Berlin book-trade. The motion was passed at a meeting of the Association January 21, 105 voting for the measure and 81 against it. The committee of the Börsenverein, in the official announcement of this event, takes comfort in the fact that, unfortunate and unwise as it deems this proceeding, it nevertheless indicates progress, as formerly the discounts were fifteen to twenty per cent. It also announces its intention to rigorously restrict Berlin and Leipzig to their own localities and to afford every protection possible to the trade elsewhere. How far it will be able to do this we are curious to see.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PHILADELPHIA BOOK-TRADE ASSOCIATION.

THE Philadelphia Book-Trade Association, composed of the leading Philadelphia printers, stationers, paper men, and bookbinders, whose object is to look after Congressional legislation affecting the interests of the trade, held its annual meeting on the 19th inst., F. W. McDowell, one of the managers, presiding.

Among other business it endorsed a series of resolutions presented by the Associated Wholesale Grocers of St. Louis in favor of a National Bankrupt law, which state that "the frauds perpetrated and the unjust preferences made under the State insolvent laws have created a mercantile necessity for the passage of such a law, and that, as commerce is non-sectional, it should be fostered and promoted by a non-sectional law, by which its multifarious transactions may be construed and enforced, and its devotees probated or punished, according to their deserts." It also states that the enactment and enforcement of a national bankrupt law is "the only practical method available to the community of stemming the tide of fraudulent and dishonest repudiation of honest indebtedness which has overwhelmed the country in years past." A national collection law is also urged, which shall guarantee to producers, middlemen, and consumers "fair dealing when prosperous, and a square divide in the event of misfortune." The secretary was instructed to communicate with the members of Congress representing Philadelphia districts and urge their support of such a measure.

Before adjourning the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Thomas Mackellar; Vice-Presidents, H. C. Baird, H. F. Coates; Secretary and Treasurer, A. G. Elliot; Managers, F. W. McDowell, George S. Ferguson, J. R. Jones, E. S. Talmage, Clayton McMichael, W. W. Harding, John Sinclair, George S. Harris, E. P. Restein, R. Hastings, A. J. Holman.

THOMAS KIRK: A PIONEER PUBLISHER AND BOOKSELLER.

THOMAS H. PEASE, of the firm of Thos. H. Pease & Son, New Haven, Ct., contributed on January 31, to the Columbian Weekly Register, of that city, an interesting bibliographical sketch of eleven pamphlets, containing descriptions of the ceremonies in memory of George Washington and the funeral eulogies delivered directly after the death of the great general. In reply to the query, "Who can give the history of Thomas Kirk?" the printer of two of the pamphlets noticed, Mr. C. C. Leigh, of Brooklyn, N. Y., gives the following record of one of the first printers and publishers of this century:

Thomas Kirk, class leader in Sands Street church, and trustee in 1807, pioneer editor, publisher, bookseller, and printer, one of the foremost among the enterprising contributors to the early growth and prosperity of Brooklyn, born in Cork, Ireland, in 1772, became a printer in his youth, was converted and joined the Wesleyans at 17, came to America prior to 1790, established a printing, bookselling, and publishing business in New York; thence came to Brooklyn, where, in 1799, he commenced the publication of the Long Island Advertiser, the second paper established on Long Island. The Long Island Star was started by him in 1809. Some time after this he sold out his paper and all his publishing interests, confining himself to his job printing office, but subsequently we find him a publisher in New York, conducting the largest establishment of that kind in the city. By this house was issued the first edition of Clarke's Commentary published in this country.

Commercial reverses interfered with his amassing a fortune, as his success in business promised. Having again returned to Brooklyn, he became closely identified with the interest of the growing town, and for some time occupied the position of one of the associate judges of the county. His name is pleasantly connected with the origin of Sunday schools in Brooklyn, the first gatherings having been in a house provided by him. He was the first vice-president of the Apprentices' Library in Brooklyn in 1823 and one of the first officers of the Brooklyn City Bible Society in 1840. He became an official member in the Washington Street M. E. church, subsequently one of the chief founders of the Pacific Street church and its first class leader. On the evening of his death, his class, hearing of his illness, met at his home. There, surrounded by the family and all the members of his class but one, while the pastor and class were bowed in prayer, and at the very hour in which he was accustomed to close his class, he ceased at once to work and live, Thursday evening, October 9, 1851. This noble, honored Christian died at the age of 79.

Mr. Kirk was a man of uncommon culture, serenity, and piety, and was profoundly respected by all. A vast concourse of people attended his funeral, embracing, it is said, all the public functionaries of the city.

OBITUARY.

JOHN CASPAR KOCH.

JOHN CASPAR KOCH, probably the oldest and best-known member of the stationery trade of this country, died at Berlin on February 7. He was born at Oberrad, near Frankfurt on the Main in Germany, in 1817. His father was a cabinet-maker, and though an excellent workman, remained always in most moderate circumstances. He died when his son John was but seven years old, and his wife died eight years after, leaving five children, two sons and three daughters. One of the latter was engaged to be married to a man who had gone to seek his fortune in America. She decided to follow him to Baltimore, and took her young brother John with her. By his brother-in-law's efforts he soon secured a situation in the book-bindery of a Mr. Bell. He was apprenticed for six years, but finding that Mrs. Bell required his services as child's nurse as much as her husband did in the shop, he did not stay long but wandered up to Philadelphia and entered the book-bindery of Mr. Snyder. In 1837 Mr. Snyder failed and the young apprentice was transferred to the shop of Robert Desilver, where he finished his apprenticeship in 1838. During these years in Philadelphia the young man studied hard and cultivated his mind and manners untiringly. In 1839 he went to France to perfect himself in the art of book finishing. He returned to America and found employment at the Bible House in New York. In 1848 he started in business for himself, but failed in the panic of 1857. Later he started again in Nassau Street, N. Y. City, under the style of John C. Koch, and his excellent goods soon built him up a large business. He was the first manufacturer of music-paper in this country and one of the first to manufacture blank books on a large scale. Two of his sons were taken into the business, and later on two nephews named Horn were also admitted. The business increased steadily and moved from larger to still larger quarters until the building now occupied by Koch Sons & Co. on Pearl Street is probably the finest establishment of its kind in the United States. Several years ago the demands of the business made it necessary for the senior member of the firm to reside permanently in Berlin, where he owned a charming villa in Friedenau, one of the pretty suburbs of that great capital. He was twice married and leaves a large family, to which he was thoroughly devoted. The interment was at Friedenau.

JUSTIN JONES.

JUSTIN JONES, the veteran Boston editor and publisher, died February 23, at Cromwell, Conn., aged seventy-four. He was born in Brunswick, Maine. He was very young when his father died and was obliged to leave school early to become a printer's apprentice. He "set up" several of Longfellow's earlier writings when the poet was professor in Bowdoin College. At seventeen he came to Boston and in time became proprietor of the Boston Pearl and Literary Gazette, a semi-monthly literary paper, which was afterwards transferred to Hartford. In 1836 Mr. Jones went to Cleveland, Ohio, then the far West, and established a book business and later a printing office in which the Cleveland Daily Herald was printed during its early days. After three or four years Mr. Jones drifted back to Boston and became connected as printer, writer, and proprietor with such publications as the Flag of Our Union, The Hesperus, The Yankee Privateer, and The Yankee Blade. His nom de plume, over which he wrote chiefly fiction, was "Harry Hazel." In 1851 he was elected to the State Legislature of Massachusetts and there refused to join in the coalition by which Charles Sumner was elected United States Senator. He was a member of the board of directors for many institutions and was a man of public spirit and earnest patriotism. In 1865 Mr. Jones removed to Brookline, Mass., where he has since lived as a most active citizen. Socially he was delightful and his home life was unusually happy. He leaves a widow, five sons and two daughters. Charles J. Jones of the New York Times is one of these sons.

REV. ALBERT ZABRISKIE GRAY, author of "The Land and the Life, or Sketches and Studies in Palestine," "Mexico as It Is," "Words of the Cross," and "Jesus Only" and other sacred songs, died in Chicago, February 23, aged 49 years.

PHILIP H. WELCH, the author of bright sayings and jokes, who wrote at various times for the Rochester Post-Express, Philadelphia Call, and more recently for the New York Sun, Epoch, Judge, Life, Puck, and other periodicals, died in Brooklyn, February 25. He was born at Angelica, N. Y., in 1849. About a year ago he brought out a volume of bright dialogues, reprinted from the weekly papers, under the title "The Tailor-Made Girl" (Charles Scribner's Sons), exploiting the fashions and foibles of the period. It was clever throughout, and was very favorably received.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—Delbridge & Orr, booksellers and stationers, have been succeeded by Orr & Glover.

BRONSON, MICH.—We regret to hear that the valuable bookstore of J. Francis Ruggles, the "Bibliopole," was destroyed by fire, on February 20. He writes quite cheerfully, however: "Although my literary accumulations of a lifetime have been swept away, yet I expect to resume business in safer quarters; and, having no liabilities, shall soon be ready to again lay in a new stock, to be purchased for cash, as usual."

MONTAGUE, TEX.—J. F. Clark & Co., booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Andrews Mfg Company have removed to 76 Fifth Avenue, near 14th Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—It gives us pleasure to note that Robert H. Dodd has been admitted as a member of the firm of Dodd, Mead & Co.

NEW YORK CITY.—The firm of Liebenroth, Von Auw & Co. having been dissolved by the death of Adolph Liebenroth, the business is now carried on under the same style by a firm composed of Iwan Von Auw, Hermann Schleicher, and Alwin Von Auw.

NEW YORK CITY.—The American Tract Society will open a branch store in New York City, May 1, 1889, with a full assortment of their publications. They will use the premises now occupied by the N. Y. Sunday-School Association 304 Fourth Ave., near 23d St.

PITTSBURG, PA.—J. R. Weldin & Co., 427 and 429 Wood Street, ask that as all their catalogues were destroyed in the wreck, publishers and others will please send them one each of their catalogues.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—On January 24, John W. Roberts & Co. sold their interest in the book, stationery and art departments of their business to Coleman & Gruninger, both of whom have been associated with Roberts & Co. for the past three and four years respectively. Coleman & Gruninger will continue business at the old address, giving their entire attention to and vigorously pushing the departments they have purchased. Messrs. Roberts & Co. will confine themselves hereafter to the sale of Advertising cards and novelties, commercial stationery, and the further increase of their printing department, same address, 10 Post Street.

TOPEKA, KAN.—On February 22, about 6 o'clock in the morning, the George W. Crane Printing House, the largest publishing company in the State, was destroyed by fire. The fire was the most destructive that has ever visited Topeka. It was discovered by the engineer, but by the time the Fire Department arrived the central portion of the building was ablaze from the basement to the third floor. In less than an hour the building was burned to the ground. The burned building, which was owned by Wilson Keith, was erected about a year ago, and was the finest block in the city. The total loss is estimated to be about $400,000.

TRENTON, N. J.—Brearley & Stoll, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. Each will continue in business alone.

PARCEL SALE OF NEW BOOKS.—The following circular has been just issued to Publishers, Importers, and Dealers, by Ezekiel & Bernheim, Auctioneers, No. 134 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.:

Spring Season, 1889.—First large combination Parcel Sale of New Books, Stationery, Library and Office Goods, at Auction, by order of Publishers, Manufacturers and Importers, in lots to suit Dealers or Consumers, Monday, March 25, 1889, commencing at 10 o'clock, A.M., precisely, in the second floor of our Salesrooms, upon the following terms and conditions:

1. All Invoices containing printed or written description of each sample lot with Publishers' or Manufacturers' Prices must be in our hands on or before Monday, March 11, 1889.

2. Instructions for selling duplicates with quantities in reserve must be sent to us on or before Monday, March 18, 1889.

3. Our charges for selling are ten (10) per cent. Commission, and two dollars ($2.00) per page of Catalogue and Advertising.

4. Reports of prices will be mailed immediately after the conclusion of sale.

5. Accounts of Sales with proceeds rendered within thirty (30) days after sales.

Liberal Cash Advances made upon receipt of consignments or immediately after conclusion of sales.

Extraordinary advantages! This Sale will be largely advertised in Literary and Book Trade Journals throughout the United States. Catalogues of the sale will be sent to over 2000 Dealers, Collectors, and Libraries. Our system for receiving and executing bids from a distance is thoroughly perfected. Three-fourths of the books sold by us during the past year have gone into the hands of private parties living at a distance, for much better prices than what could be obtained for them in any other market. At our Parcel Sales we give buyers the privilege of purchasing one or more copies, thereby inciting competition between Consumers and Dealers. Publishers will find it much more to their advantage if they will have their contributions sold under their own rather than fictitious names, as the descriptions in the catalogues are then more explanatory to out-of-town buyers. Publishers will find this sale an excellent medium for disposing of small or large lots that they wish to close out. All consignments intrusted to our care will have our best attention.
